HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the 6-month period ended June 30, 2024, the Fund underperformed its benchmark, the FTSE EPRA Nareit Developed Index Net (USD).

WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

Singapore was the leading regional contributor to relative performance. Outperformance was driven by not owning underperforming securities across property types during the period. Within the U.S., the net lease sector was the leading contributor to relative performance. Overweight positions to retail-focused landlords outperformed.

Overall, the U.S. was the leading detractor from relative performance. Relative underperformance was primarily due to underweight positions to regional malls, which outperformed early in the year. The U.K. was also a regional detractor. Overweight positions in student housing and office landlords lagged during the period.

POSITIONING

In the U.S., we maintain a preference for needs-based real estate, which includes residential, health care and select retail assets. We have increased exposure to Europe and have a favorable view broadly, particularly among residential, retail and specialty landlords in continental Europe. In Asia Pacific, we believe Japanese property values may benefit as some private investors indicated they're likely to deploy meaningful amounts of capital in the region over the next several years.
